

PHOTO: HARSHITA NAYYAR

NIKHIL PAUL

When Nikhil Paul couldn't quite find the kind of lighting he was looking for to use in his new studio space in 2016, he designed it himself. Paul Matter, his New Delhi-based lighting design atelier, was thus born, with its debut collection Tango, which instantly made a statement for its simplified form and modularity, while also being rich in material, including burnt, aged brass and etched glass. Inspired by mid-century modernism and the industrial age, Paul has since designed many lighting collections with distinctly minimalist forms. "What continually fascinates me about light design is its ability to shape emotion and space," he says. "How a warm glow, a shadow or a reflection can transform the way we experience a room, and the infinite possibilities it offers as a material."

Dhruv Agarwwal
Bloom chandelier

Ghidini 1961
One on One
Table Lamp

Brand Van Egmond
Bella Chandelier Vertical

Flos
Luce Sferica pendant lamp
by Ronan Bouroullec

